Specific Measurable Results

Create a compelling scoreboard. “People play differently when they’re keeping score.” The scoreboard should reflect:

Where we are now

Where we want to be

When we need to be there

It should be visible and identify if things go off-track, so that corrective action can be taken.

Hiring Superstars

"I'd much rather have an empty seat than an empty suit" Thad Seligman

Don't keep people on board who aren't reaching their numbers, don't let an empty desk motivate you to hire the wrong person.

The Right AD

We are looking for sales superstars. If your not a top performer don't even call. Our average performers make between $50-$100k a year. Our superstars make well over $200k a year. This position is only for the best salespeople. Please call Robbie and let me know why we should hire you. 208-999-9999

HighTicketSecrets

Where to place the AD

- Craigslist
- Traditional newspaper advertising
- Bonus current team members
- Always be looking for talent. It can be found at Best Buy, the furniture store, or Nordstrom’s.

The Phone Interview

1.Ask basic interview questions like: What is your experience, what is your education, how did you perform in your last sales job?

2.Listen for energy, stage voice, and overall presence on the phone.

3.Ask: Why they feel they are a top performer?

HighTicketSecrets

www.getwsodownload.com

Defining moment in the interview

- 4.Reject them and tell them your not hearing superstar.

- 5.Listen for response.

Working With a Top Performer

Top producers have a number of attributes that can translate into restlessness. They are original, intelligent, and full of ego. They generally get frustrated in most companies and end up starting their own.

HighTicketSecrets

Working with a Top Performer

The key is to never say no to them.
Redirect their energy or give them some hurdles to jump through

Top performer says: If we had better communication between departments, I believe our sales would increase. Could I put together a program for that?

You: Great Idea!!! Tell you what get three more sales for the next three months and I'll let you run with it.

Working with a Top Performer

Top Performer: This promo piece is terrible.

DON’T GET DEFENSIVE

You: I designed the one your criticizing, but great! Let’s see what you can come up with.

HighTicketSecrets

Working with a Top Performer

- Top Performer: “I could definitely increase sales”
- You: “I’ll believe it when I see it. Talk is cheap”
- The more you challenge a top performer, the more you encourage them to overachieve.
- Don’t forget to compliment them when they meet and exceed your challenge
